She's everything

Put on your pinkest, sparkliest hazmat suit and join our nuclear collision of worlds this Shabbat!

Our cocktail menu will be a juxtaposition. Pink, fruity, sparkly drinks reminiscent of a Barbiecore aesthetics are contrasted to grey, melancholic, and even radioactive drinks to represent Oppenheimer's reality.

But one must look beyond appearances. These drinks will reflect the opposite yet complementary messages in each of these two stories:

how worlds are built and how worlds are destroyed

HE'S JUST BECOME DEATH,
THE DESTROYER
OF WORLDS

She's everything

We start our Barbie section with Midge, Barbie's pregnant friend, to represent the Barbieland world building quite literally: we give birth to this cocktail menu. Unfortunately, Midge was discontinued by Mattel because a pregnant doll is too weird and so are zero-ABV drinks in this party. Playtime roughs up. Say Hi, Barbie and embark on a playful journey with us while sipping on a refreshing Barbie's Dreamhouse daiquiri. Channel your inner Kenergy with a tiki-inspired drink that will take you right to the beach, and journey to The Real World for subtle bitterness. This creative menu culminates in Blonde Fragility, a banana cocktail held together by a repressed pinch of chartreuse just like Ken's existence is a corollary to Barbie's boldness. You might also want to play on your own terms: with Barbie, you can be anything! Come to the bar and mix your own drink!

In the Oppenheimer menu, we invite you to "destroy" classic drinks. Drop a Sake Bomb to destroy the simplest drink: a pint of beer. You must ponder whether destruction is really necessary. Sip on a ginseng-enriched Manhattan (Project) or try to find out the top-secret spirit in the Los Alamos Mule. Try a Jungle Bird and become Death, or try the greenest negroni ever and become afraid of a Nuclear Collapse.
